Dedication

Mr. Dennis Hales

We the Staff of the 1967 De-Hi are proud to dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Dennis L. Hales. He has been a helpful advisor to the Class of 1967 for the past four years. His eagerness to help students with their problems has made him a very popular teacher with the entire student body. With this dedication we offer our sincere thanks.

This is Deshler, a school filled with life, spirit, and people. The following reflections are to be valued. They are unique morsels of life at Deshler which will remain as an image of the future, present, and past. They enable us to relive, share, and store events for recollection of our fleeting years at D.H.S. Spirit is related through reflections as goals which humans strive to gain and maintain. Unity among and between classes kindled a feeling of usefulness and a sense of self being in making these reflections valuable possessions. We have made many new and wonderful friends which we will keep close to our hearts in the years to come.

We will live and relive these memories, but now we must direct our glances forward to seek those ideals and goals toward which we are constantly striving. For from these, new reflections will be added.

THIS IS DESHLER . . . ADMINISTRATION

Administration, the backbone of learning, signifies leadership in every aspect. In our vast, complicated world of today, there are many places where tribute is due. The one person who should concern us all at this crucial time of our lives is the teacher - that dedicated person, full of undying, unselfish desires to help each of us to grow into the person we all hope to be.

A teacher must be composed of many mysterious elements. The most important, second only to devotion, is patience. He must have the patience, not only to teach the student, but to understand him. He must take the time to discuss the student's problems; for this is when a student begins to truly admire his teacher. He knows and feels that the teacher is really interested in him as a person and will help him lay the foundation for his future. Only a teacher can realize the trying times he must go through, purely for our benefit.

All of the teaching staff at Deshler are far more admired and respected than they must believe. We owe these people so much - our learning, our future, and indeed, our lives.

Thank you for that which you have given us, that which no one can ever, ever take away . . .

THIS IS DESHLER . . . SENIORS

We the Seniors of 1967 stand at the gateway to Life with much already accomplished, but the ultimate Goal still far in the distance. Since that memorable day in September, approximately 4 years ago, when we began our high school career, we have crossed through many gateways leading us to the wonderful and exciting experiences only obtainable to carefree youth. We have not crossed these paths individually - united we have existed through success and even failure. From the building of our first float entitled "Equality for All", to our picnic and snake dance celebrating our new additions to our ring fingers, we have met each new gateway with hope, understanding, friendship and companionship.

And now we have entered our last doorway as youth - the gateway to our Senior year. With the arriving of our Senior pictures and the measuring for our graduation robes, the realization that on May 21, 1967 at 8:00 p.m. another gateway will be crossed never to be tread through again.

What pathways lie ahead for we the Seniors of 1967? With a vivid recollection of our fleeting years, record hops, Junior and Senior Prom, money making projects, we now must direct our footsteps forward to cross each future gateway with the determination and experience we have gained from our life at D.H.S.

THIS IS DESHLER . . UNDERCLASSMEN

Deshler is a school filled with ambitious and loyal underclassmen. While all three are the underclassmen, the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors entered school last September with very different emotions. To the anticipating freshmen, the new year promised excitement. The comparative security of junior high was left behind for the uncertainty of senior high. But regardless of their new freedoms, the freshmen strived to achieve scholastic ability.

The outlook of the sophomores was quite different. They were no longer awed by their surroundings, but nevertheless, they took full advantage of their carefree days. The sophomores were given a chance to demonstrate their talents in band, chorus, athletics, and other organizations. As Spring approached, the class turned its attention to the selection of class rings - signs of importance and advancement.

The most prominent members of the underclassmen are the juniors. Anxiously awaiting their senior year, the juniors faced a multitude of new responsibilities, and homework was harder and more plentiful than ever before. The juniors assumed jobs as officers, chairmen, and members of various student organizations. The greatest concern of the juniors, however, was the junior-senior prom. Throughout the year the class worked hard making money and plans for this formal dance. Now that the juniors are approaching their final days at Deshler High School, they look toward a senior year filled with excitement and preparation for the future.

THIS IS DESHLER . . . ORGANIZATIONS

Deshler is filled with organizations which contribute to the acceptance of responsibility by the student and aids him in becoming a better addition to this complex society. A student may be an exceptional mathematician or scientist, but if he cannot work with people and contribute his talents to a specific field of his particular interests, he will be contributing little to his school and in later life to the society in which he lives. In addition to the mental processes attained in the classroom, a student must mature socially; he must be able to associate successfully with the many different personalities found in the world which surrounds him. Organizations offer him an excellent opportunity to fulfill this need and at the same time have fun doing the things which he enjoys most.

Scholastic societies such as the National Honor Society and the Student Council allow the student to take an active part in the governmental activities of the school. DECA, FHA, FFA, Delta Sigma Chi, and Spanish Club are more specialized organizations which function to further knowledge and create a bond among the interested participants.

The band, chorus, and other musical organizations strengthen co-operation and stimulate pride in D.H.S. Organizations are the backbone of co-operation, friendship, and leadership but most of all they provide a basis on which the student can build a future.

THIS IS DESHLER . . . SPORTS

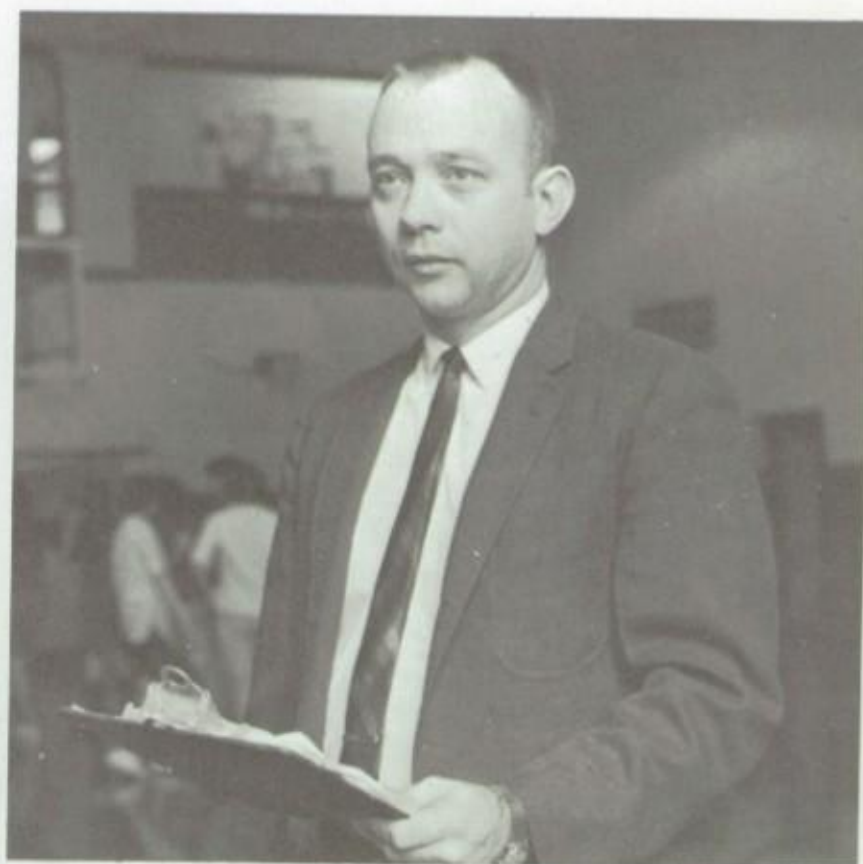

Athletics is the heart of spirit at Deshler High School. Win or lose, the enthusiasm of the students, teachers, and parents is always at its peak. From the signs on the lockers to the "peppy pep meetings" before the games, the student body proves their support during the basketball season. The gym was filled with spirited voices when every class joined in yelling the cheer "Battle Cry". The stands at the baseball field are full of fans cheering on "Parratt's Perky Pirates". The large caravan of cars following the baseball team home from Columbus left you with a feeling of united spirit. Even though track is only starting its fourth season, it has a bright future ahead. As yet there is no track to practice on, but the boys have gained experience from traveling to different schools to participate in track meets.

Varsity Club successfully ended its first year of existence. This club is very selective in its membership. Only Deshler's athletes can join. The club sold "Deshler Pirates" license plates to earn money for the first annual Homecoming Dance that was held on February 4.

In the spring the annual Athletic Banquet was held on March 28. Players, coaches, managers, and cheerleaders were honored and awards were distributed to the different people that earned them during the various seasons.

THIS IS DESHLER . . . JUNIOR HIGH AND ELEMENTARY

Deshler is filled with the enthusiasm for learning which accompanies an elementary student from his initial entrance into kindergarten, and through the grades where his foundations of knowledge are laid. The base of this foundation consists of the three traditional courses reading, writing, and arithmetic; but cemented firmly on the top of this foundation are the building blocks of character, personality and dedication to the school, parents, and the principles being learned. The elementary student learns more than fundamentals. He learns how to make friends, how to study, and the rewards of hard work and a pleasing personality.

As the students develop in body and mind and the elementary heights have been scaled, he goes forward and is faced with a new challenge - that of Jr. High. Once here he becomes rather frustrated with the consideration that the elementary students are too young and the high school too old to be associates. Yet, Jr. High is a happy, carefree time when the student experiences new stepping stones; he also learns how to look and act older. And, it is in Jr. High that the student learns to utilize his mind and begins making some of his own decisions. Reflections on these hallowed years are sometimes humorous and embarrassing; but most of all they are happy and grateful reflections.

THIS IS DESHLER . . . STUDENT LIFE

Student life is action - always moving, never static. It is the enthusiasm of a joyous roar from Deshler's devoted fans as their basketball, baseball, or track team plays in competition with other schools. A satisfaction of achievement stimulates participation in these sports at Deshler. Athletes find varsity club a worthwhile group experience as well as a challenge to compete with fellow students.

"Fun" activities are also a necessary part of student life at Deshler High. The snake dance, marking the beginning of the exciting basketball season, was a night to remember. As the boys threw a paper tiger into the bonfire to signify a victorious first game over Holgate, the cheerleaders led the fans in a victory chant. Another exciting experience was the arrival of the cherished class rings. For the Juniors, these rings were a sign of belonging and signified their position as future graduates of Deshler High School.

Behind the scenes of student life are various activities that apply only to the students of Deshler. One of these activities is going to the library only to find that the librarian has punched your card out for the next two weeks. Another is obtaining a permit from your favorite teacher to go to the hectic ditto room to escape the boredom of another unwanted study hall.

Student life is a vital part of Deshler High School. Through various organizations and activities the students find pleasure and satisfaction in learning. In addition to classroom work there is a need for teenagers to channel their energies into worthwhile directions. It is for this reason that the spirit created by an active student body is so necessary to a successful educational system.

Senior Slobs

Did someone say "more"?

You're the WHAT Angels?

Put a tiger in your tank.

umm - Say it again.

Oh, why did we do it!

Innocence!?

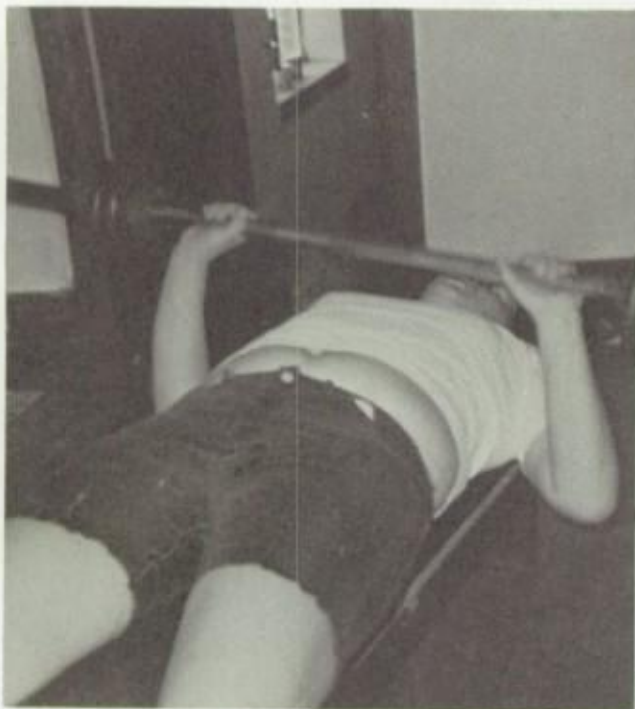

Deshler's Pride and Joy

Bill's new jig

Underclassmen Goofs

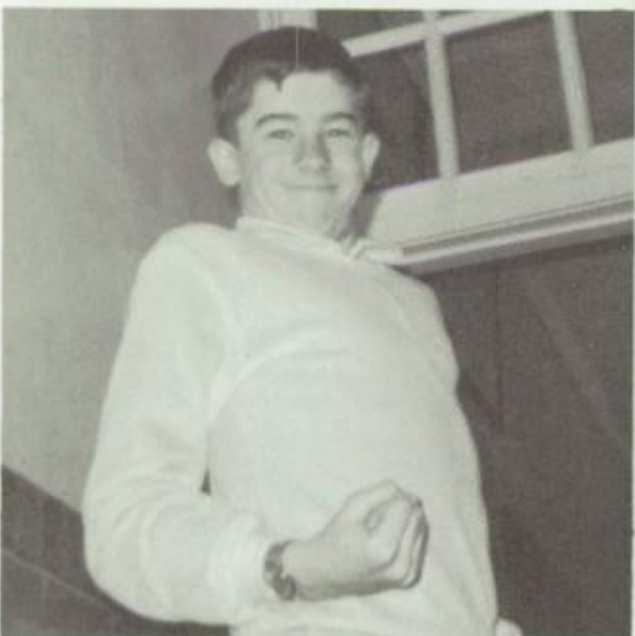

Look at those stomach muscles!

Bottoms up, Keith.

Mr. Burke's body guard.

Is it Tom. . .Is it Bill??

Bob, it's not a big thing.

Aw! Somebody tore out the good part!

The person in four who wants a little more.

Penny still doesn't get it.

Ah . . . Those

Fall back 10 yards and punt.

Wow! It's that well-known rock 'n roll quintet known as Bods, Inc.

Mike is majoring in carpentry.

Beth, it'll never fit.

With muscles like that, who needs brains??

Gee! Cinderella and her fairy-godmother.

Kill! Kill!

Priceless Memories

"Playboy's" much celebrated Playmate of the Decade, Bubbles Behrman

Hey, Joan, Donna says she wants her block back.

....I don't think so, Al. Isn't Louie a little shorter than that?

It's feeding time at the zoo.

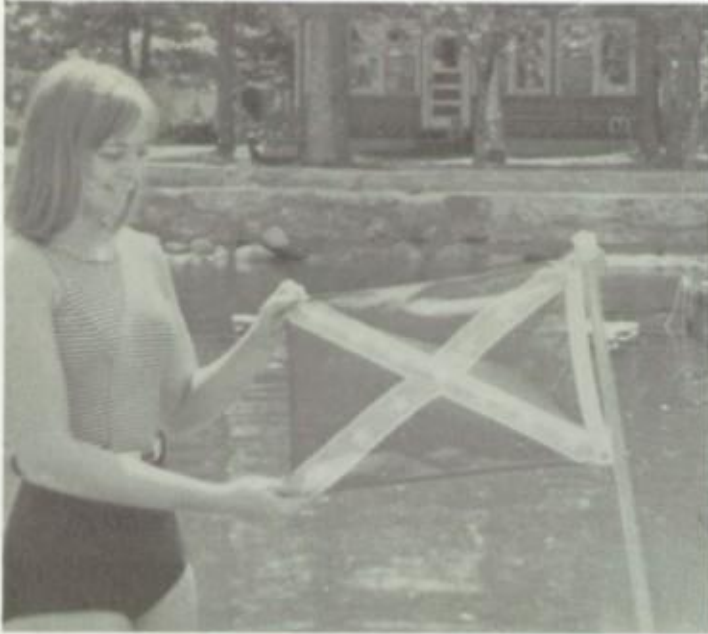

Our group has 77% fewer brains.

Better not mess around, Joe! She has the paisley belt on karate.

D.H.S. Dandies

Not bad...and the flag is nice, too.

Noon matinee in the lower hall.

Seems like our cheerleaders get homelier all the time.

The night the orphanage burned down.

Cuban refugees

Jeff will now give the benediction.

Let's pull a panty raid on the boy's dorm

You lost how much playing pool?

Patience, Pat.

King Kong versus Godzilla

At Play

Grunt! Groan! Puff! Puff!

Hey, buddy! Don't mess with Poo.

If I use new Ban deodorant, will someone dance with me?

That's his fourth plate of ham and beans. (UH-OH!)

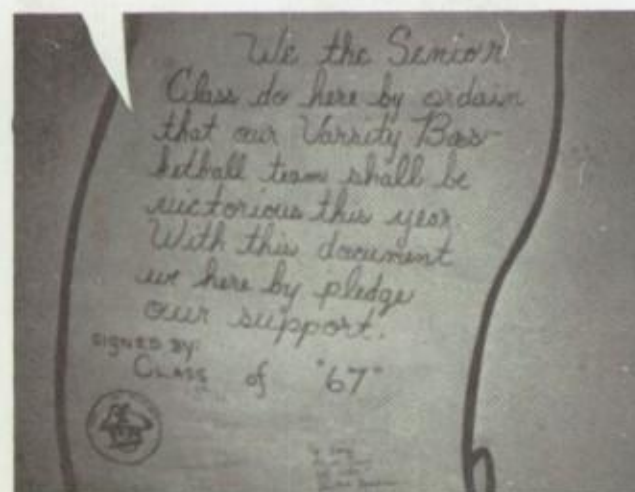

Now why in the world won't this thing flush?

When we were young and idealistic.

All right, you get the peanut butter; you get the ketchup; and you bring the eggs.

One can't believe everything one reads.

Unhand me, or I'll belt you with my Captain America Comic!

That sure is a load off my mind.

Thank You

We, the DE-HI Staff of 1967, would like to express our appreciation and sincere thanks to all those who gave their time and effort to make this publication possible. It is through your interest and concern that we have been able to prepare this book as a memoir to the students and community. Thank you so much.
